Pastor KrisAnne's Korner

This Sunday everyone is invited to a meal and meeting following worship. We will discern together about the capital campaign regarding renovations to the kitchen and fellowship hall. The theme of this campaign is "Come to the Table," which is such a beautiful Gospel message. Imagine this... that God looked down upon the world, the beautiful creation He had made from nothing but His own breath and word and power. A world decimated by sin - greed and violence, selfishness and death abounding - and He says, "come to me."

"Come to me, Noah, and build an ark. Come to me, Abraham, and follow my lead. Come to me, Moses, and deliver my people. Come to me, Rahab and Ruth, and find salvation here with my people. Come to me, Mary, and bring my Son into the world." And then Jesus says, "Come to my Table, sinners and outcasts, anyone who knows their need, and be filled. Come to my Table, confused disciples, so slow to learn but eager for my presence. Come to my Table, children and women, sidelined by the world, but seen and loved by me. Come to my Table, anyone who hears my voice and wants to come. You are welcome here."

Through this project, we can take up God's invitation and extend it to one another and to our community. We can say, "Come to the Table, brothers and sisters, in joy or sorrow, in plenty or in need, we are always family. Come to the Table, neighbors - no matter where you're from or if you know Jesus yet or not, you are always welcome here!" We are doing this already with what we have, but our space does not adequately reflect our spirit. In faith, we can use our resources wisely to extend God's welcome and hospitality even farther than we are able to right now. I look forward to our prayer, conversation and discernment together this Sunday. I continue to believe and to preach that God's Spirit is present and powerfully at work when we gather together for worship and for food and fellowship. Please make this time a priority and bring your reflections on hospitality and outreach with you! Come to the Table!
